THE RESEARCH COLLECTIVE ON MIGRATION AND RACISM - (COMIR)

GRADUATE STUDENT CONFERENCE
CONVERGING PERSPECTIVES ON MIGRATIONS AND RACISMS

This bilingual conference aims to gather graduate students and recent graduates who work on various topics related to migrations and racisms. It is interested in both, the phenomenon of migration or racism in itself as well as in the complex and multiform interactions or articulations between them. This conference will be an opportunity for participants to present their work and receive feedback from other students as well as from professors. It will also allow them to refine their academic presentation skills, foster constructive exchanges and develop a network of seasoned and apprentice researchers.

Lunch will be provided
